

Farina Restoration Group

Farina Restoration Group (ABN 37 949 905 799) has been working since 2009 to stabilise and restore aspects of the historic town of Farina, South Australia, in the Lake Eyre Basin on the old alignment of the Ghan railway on the Oodnadatta Track. While the town is no longer inhabited, the Group has been restoring parts of Farina to reflect its past and ensure that it is retained in the history of Australia's outback. Alongside maintaining historically significant buildings, the project includes the development of walking trails and storyboards throughout the town, explaining the history and function of the sites to the increasing number of visiting tourists. A group of over 200 volunteers participate in an annual restoration program.
